dying. She only lived a few minutes after I got to her. She died very easy not showing any strain of the muscles and looked so natural in death. One of the last times she was seen by me was about an hour ago that she was in the store bed and said about an hour ago that she was "not quite natural and couldn't keep her food". She has died since.

Dinner she was very sick and I asked her to how a doctor, I stayed at home until the doctor arrived and said that she was taking on morning. She seemed to feel very well after a light dinner and I thought she was going to have a good night. Just after realizing she was attracted to her by a sound and found she got home at

HUNDRED DESCENDANTS SURVIVE AGED WOMAN

Surviving by over 300 descendants Mrs. Phoebe Bevins, 87 years old, died at the residence of her son, O. W. Bevins, 870 West Fourth Street, Texas, November 18, 1915. She was the wife of W. C. Bevins, a farmer, and died at the age of 90 years. Mrs. Bevins was a member of the Methodist Church, having been a member for over 30 years. She was the last surviving member of the family of James Bevins, who died in 1906. She is survived by her daughter, Mrs. Emeline Bevins, and her two sons, O. W. Bevins, formerly of Fort Worth, and E. W. Bevins, of Midlothian. She was buried in the Bevins family cemetery in Willow Springs, Texas.
The rest of the boys have all returned home, and I will go back to Houston tonight. I will send them the working cake to Mr. Baker tomorrow. Tell him when you see him they will not be charged on it. As I desire to give it to him, I expect to send it to you, and if you see Mr. Baker, you can give it to him. Also, please send your greetings to your friend, and I would like to have a letter from him.

The funeral at St. Sorebets Friday was a great success. The church was packed and the angel in the hymn, 'The World Beyond,' moved the audience to tears. The address was given by Mr. Charles Allen.

I have moved to Houston. I have been gone only a few days and the house has been left to you. Mrs. Baker sent me a letter saying they have not heard from you. I have not heard from Mrs. Baker yet. I will try to write her soon.
